Part 1

After a warm rain, Bobo Bear saw a rainbow over the berry hill. Below it, three bees buzzed around honey drops resting on flower petals.

Part 2

The rain had shaken the honey from their little cart. The drops were too sticky and heavy for the bees to carry alone.

Part 3

Bobo found a wide green leaf and used it like a tray. The bees rolled one golden drop onto the middle.

Part 4

The flat leaf tipped, and the honey slid back onto a flower. Nobody was hurt, but Bobo knew they needed a better shape.

Part 5

Bobo curled the leaf edges into a cup and tied them with a soft piece of grass. Now the honey stayed safely inside.

Part 6

The bees carried the front while Bobo held the back. Step by careful step, they moved each honey drop toward the hive.

Part 7

When the last drop arrived, the sun lit it with red, yellow, and blue colors. It looked like a tiny honey rainbow.

Part 8

The bees shared one sweet berry with Bobo. Working together had turned a sticky problem into a bright and happy afternoon.
